Senior Managing Partner of Stantec Engineering Joins Challenge Charter School Board of Directors

Glendale, AZ – Glendale's Challenge Charter School, welcomes Mr. Scot Schlund, Senior Managing Partner of Stantec Engineering. One of the Nation's top engineering firms with offices throughout both the US & Canada, including here in Phoenix.

Mr. Schlund brings his vast experience in engineering and even more importantly his business experience and network for the benefit of the students and the school's operations. Scot also shares Challenge Charter School's Leadership and Board passion for quality education reform locally, based on their own advocacy understand the undying commitment, sacrifice, and relentless needed to put kids' first in educational decision making. They embrace this exciting new opportunity and what it will bring to local children.

Founded in 1996 by fellow education reform pioneers, Greg and Pam Miller, today Challenge Charter School serves approximately 600 Kindergarten thru 6th grade students at 5801 W. Greenbriar Dr., Glendale, AZ 85308. By setting high expectations for staff and students, and then removing barriers to reach them, Challenge students have consistently performed far above State averages in both overall achievement and growth, and Challenge Charter School has been recognized as a:
