

Students raise funds

Students from Glendale's Challenge Charter School recently donated $600 to the West Valley Child Crisis Center. After the Sept. 11 tragedies, second grader Wyatt Butts decided to help. He approached Principal Greg Miller about dressing the students in red, white and blue and posing for a "U.S. Human Flag" photo. The students then sold the photos in the community. School officials contacted the Glendale Firefighters to see how the students could best contribute the funds, who suggested the West Valley Child Crisis Center. Top, one student from each class was chosen to visit the fire station and present the check March 5. Left, Firefighter Tom Cole dresses Wyatt in fire gear. Above, Ellen Stovall, volunteer services director for the West Valley Child Crisis Center, accepts the check from Principal Miller, Firefighter Cole and Wyatt.

Photos by Heidi Hougham/Independent Newspapers